Wallace—Gibson.

Wallace—Gibson.

The appended account of the wedding of Mr. George S. Wallace and Miss Frances Gibson, of Huntington, W. Va., from the Huntington, Advertiser, will interest many of their Richmond friends:

"At Trinity Episcopal church, Wednesday evening, Mr. George S. Wallace was united in marriage to Miss Frances Gibson. The ceremony was one of the most impressive ever witnessed in this city, and probably there has never been a wedding here in which more and deeper interest was manifested.

"The ceremony wilch united these two young people was performed in impressive style by Rev. John S. Gibson, father of the bride, while her venerable grandfather gave her away.

"The mald of thoner was the bride's sister, Miss Anna Gibson, and the bridesmalds were Misses Blanche Poage, Marie Harvey, Lou White, Cloyd Harvey, and the Misses Wallace, of Richmond. The best man was Mr. Herbert Fitznatrick, and the ushers were Messrs. Bernard Parrish, T. McK. Hays, Edward Solter, Robert Armstrong, August McDonald and William Harvie.

"The bride wore a beautiful gown of white tuile, and never presented a more attractive appearance. The ordus sizer, Miss Anna Gibson, as maid of honor, wore a beautiful gown of mousseline de sole. The bridesmalds wore slik mull over taffeta, and carried bouquets of bride's roses.

"The church was tastefully and beautifully decorated for the occasion, and never presented a more attractive appearance. The wedding march was played by Dr. C. E. Haworth.

"After the ceremony, a pleasant informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

"The happy couple left on No. 4 Thursday morning for an extended tour of the East, but will make their future home in this city, where they will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

"The wedding presents were numerous, and of beautiful and costly design, exemplifying in a striking manner the esteem in which both Mr. Waliace and his bride are held, not only in Huntington and West Virginia, but in distant States.

"The bride is the attractive and adcomplished daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John S. Gibson, and has for several years been one of the leaders in the highest direles of Huntington society. She has innumerable warm friends here and elsewhere who wish her all happiness in the years that are to come.

"The groom is the prosecuting attorney of Cabell county, and is a wholesouled, honorable Virginia sentleman, who is too well known by the people of Huntington to require further reference.

"The happy couple have the best wishes of innumerable friends on their journey through life together, which has been so auspiciously begun.

"Among the out of town guests present were: Rev. Issac Gibson, of Norristown, Pa.; Mrs. Ethel Gibson, of Norristown, Pa.; Mrs. Iredell, of Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. Wallace and two daughters, of Richmond, Va.; Dr. Canaday, of Palm Creek, W. Va.; Mrs. Goodykoontz, of Charleston, W. Va.; Biage Davis, of of his adopted State.

Evasion of Canadian Tariff.

Consul-General Hollaway writes from Halifax that a number of members of the Canadian Association of Manufacturers have been complaining from time to time that goods of German, French and other foreign origin were being imported into Canada from Great Britain, and thereby defeating the objects of both the dumping clause and the preferential tariff. As a partial remedy it is recommended that the government should extend its system of customs inspectors by appointing one or more to the United Kingdom, these inspectors to have similar duties to the inspectors now located in New York and elsewhere.

BISHOP VAN DE VYVER.

(Written for The Times-Dispatch.)

During the present week the Catholics of Richmond had cause for great rejoicing over the return of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Van de Vyver from his official visit to Rome. For weeks they had been looking forward to his coming as the child looks to the father's return from a long voyage, and, like the child waiting with outstretched arms for the father, whose whole being is centred on the welfare of the child, so have the spiritual children of our Rt. Rev. Bishop waited for his return as for one whose sole object in life is "to spend and be spent" for those children whom the church has entrusted to his episcopal caro. It is with feelings of unalloyed pleasure that they hid him welcome, and, while they strive to show their feelings at a reception in his honor, that reception could never do fuil justice to the warmth of affection that exists heart and soul with him in the continuance of his labors. He stands among us as stood the prophet of old among God's chosen people, and while, like the prophet, he kneels before the altar, praying with outstretched arms for God's succor to his people, so should we, like the men of old, support his suppliant hands, and, by our aid and strength, help him bear the burden which he has so long, so retiently and so successfully borne. And while we congratulate the right reverend bishop on his safe return, we may at the same time extend our well-welles to his reverend chancellor. Father Magri, whom his Alma Mater, the American College in Rome, has seen fit to honor with the degree of doctor of divinity, in token of his deep learning and zeal for the church.
